Community Programs and Events
Supporting writers through connection and inspiration

Writers need community to thrive

Our community programs for adults offer low-cost options for writers to find community, connection, and inspiration.

They include:
- Monthly community open mics to share and inspire writing
- Weekly write-ins to foster connection, provide vital accountability, and hold space and time for writing production
- Weekly critique groups to get compassionate feedback on works in progress
- Monthly brown bag writer lunches to talk craft and living the writing life
